Says Wants Peace

Nixon Declares Goal

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon declared Friday night his goal in ordering U.S. troops into Cambodia was the same as that of youthful dissenters massing to protest his policy: peace in South Vietnam.

But he said U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam now would mean "America is finished" as a peacekeeper in Asia.

For the story on student protests on Illinois campuses, see page 6.

In measured tones, Nixon said his decision to move against Communist sanctuaries in Cambodia will save lives and shorten the war.

"I take the responsibility for it," he told a White House news conference. "I believe it is the right decision. I believe it will work out. If it doesn't, I'm to blame."

Nixon described protest as a safety valve, not a signal of revolution. In fact, he said, if his staff can make the arrangements, he will be glad to talk with the demonstrators who trooped to Washington for a Saturday of dissent against his administration's policy.

Nixon chose conciliatory words to discuss the protest, expected to bring 100,000 or more to Washington Saturday. The vanguard of dissenters paraded along Pennsylvania Avenue, outside the White House itself, many carrying lighted candles, during his broadcast news conference.

"I think I understand what they want," the President said. "I would hope they would understand somewhat what I want."

"They're trying to say that they want peace, they're trying to say that they want to stop the killing, they're trying to say that we ought to get out of Vietnam," Nixon said.

"Everything I stand for is what they want..." he said.

Nixon spoke slowly and emphatically, reminding the nation it was not he who first sent Americans to Vietnam. But he in no way altered the policy decision he already had announced.

"Only history will record whether it was worthwhile," he said of the U.S. commitment to South Vietnam. "But I do know this. Now that America is there if we do what many of our very sincere critics think we should do, if we withdraw from Vietnam and allow the enemy to come into Vietnam and massacre the civilians there by the millions, as they would, if we do that, then let me say that America is finished as far as the peacekeeper in the Asian world is concerned."

Nixon said he will meet his pledge to withdraw another 150,000 American troops from Vietnam during the next year. "I did not send these men to Vietnam..." the President said.

Nixon was asked if he had been surprised about the intensity of the protests and he replied no.

He said those who are protesting believe his Cambodian decision will expand the U.S. involvement and they want peace. "I made the very decision for the same reason they are protesting," he said. "I am concerned because I know how deeply they feel."

"What I have done will do what they want."

"In my opinion, it will serve the just cause in Vietnam," he said.

Asked if he could open meaningful talks with college students, Nixon said he would like to try. "It is not easy, sometimes, they as you know talk so loudly that it is difficult to be heard."

He said, on an individual basis, it is possible to bring representatives of colleges to his offices to talk with them, to have a dialogue.

Nixon said he thought the students are trying to say they want peace, are trying to end the killing, want to end the draft and want the United States to get out of Vietnam.

Nixon said he agrees with what they want but thinks his decision to send troops into the Cambodian sanctuaries of the Viet Cong would speed those goals.

Asked about the apparent conflict with his Vietnamization program, Nixon said he explained it in his speech last month.

"I warned at that time that increased enemy action in Laos and Cambodia threatened the program," he said.

He said he acted because enemy actions in Cambodia threatened U.S. troops in Vietnam.

Asked about the state of American society and where it's heading, Nixon said "this country is not headed for revolution." He said the safety valves of the right to dissent, and his own request to District of Columbia officials to permit demonstrations on the Ellipse near the White House, were indications there would be no revolution.

He said complaints of government repression against dissenters are "nonsense."

Nixon was asked about Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird's statement last weekend that he would recommend resumption of the bombing of North Vietnam if the enemy should cross the Demilitarized Zone in strength.

Nixon said he would not speculate.

War Protesting Continues

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Collegiate protests, some peaceful, some violent, multiplied Friday on the eve of a scheduled mass demonstration in Washington against American involvement in Cambodia and the death of four Kent State University students. But signs of counter-action cropped up on the streets of New York and elsewhere.

The National Student Association in Washington said it reports that 437 of the nation's 1,500 colleges—or nearly 30 percent—were on strike or closed. Students by the thousands marched peacefully in Austin, Tex., Sacramento, Calif., Newark, N.J., and Seattle, Wash. Protestors at Skagit Valley College in Mount Vernon, Wash., trimmed their hair and beards in an effort to get their antiwar message across better with a neater appearance.

However, firebombs or other explosives went off at Marquette University, the University of North Carolina and at a state armory at New London, Conn.

Blazes were reported at the Universities of Wisconsin, Michigan, Minnesota-Duluth, Valparaiso, Ind., and a State University campus at New Paltz, N.Y.

Scores of construction workers in hard hats left their jobs in lower Manhattan and charged with swinging fists into a mass of antiwar demonstrators outside the New York Stock Exchange on Wall Street.

Then, unfurling six American flags, the workmen paraded up Broadway to City Hall, as ticker tape was thrown in their path from skyscraper windows. They picked up adherents by the hundreds as they marched.

"Impeach Lindsay," the counter-demonstrators chanted. The mayor has been vocal in his opposition to the war in Southeast Asia.

At City Hall, the crowd cheered and some sang "The Star Spangled Banner" as a letter carrier hoisted the building's American flag from half to full.

staff. It had been lowered for an officially proclaimed citywide "day of reflection."

But the crowd turned violent when a City Hall aide returned the flag to half staff. The workmen stormed the doors of City Hall, but found them locked and were driven back by a phalanx of helmeted city police.

A score of construction workers spotted a group of Pace College students on the fringe of the crowd and chased them into the lobby of the school across the street. The workmen overturned tables set up by antiwar groups, smashed furniture and bloodied a dozen or more students with their fists.

With all New York City public schools closed for the day, thousands of students sat in West 55th Street outside Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's office. The demonstration blocked off the street between Fifth and Sixth avenues.

Central Technical High School pupils in Syracuse, N.Y., attacked a band of their antiwar schoolmates at a rally led by Syracuse University students, seeking to gain support against the war in Southeast Asia. The high school was closed.

About 200 University of Mexico students on an antiwar march ran into unexpected opposition when an equal number of high school pupils harassed and sought to block the marchers.

The university was closed. St. Francis College students at Biddeford, Maine, voted against a strike three. The Student Senate at Houghton, N.Y., College said a referendum showed that 71 per cent of its 1,200 students endorsed the use of American troops in Cambodia.

At Kent, Ohio, where the shooting of the four students last Monday by National Guardsmen led to the closing of Kent State University, a student drive was under way for a reopening of the school. It had the support of Kent State President Robert I. White.

Dennis P. Carey, a graduate student leading the drive, said he had the support of at least 500 students and expected more back-to-class sentiment from among the school's 21,000 students.

Chartered buses were on the move toward Washington from many parts of the country for Saturday's demonstration.

David A. Keene, national chairman of the Young Americans for Freedom, said that antiwar demonstration leaders were seeking a violent confrontation in the capital. He said he based his opinion on "inflammatory handbills" and a "warning" to keep young children away from the rally.

President Nixon, meanwhile, said high government officials would be available for discussions with Saturday's protesters. Also, he announced the appointment of Chancellor G. Alexander Heard of Vanderbilt University as a special adviser "to help present to this administration the views and sentiments of campuses around the country... in order to keep fully informed of the thinking of the academic community and especially of the young."

A memorial service for the slain Kent State students was planned for Saturday on the lawn of the Statehouse in Montpelier, Vt. A march on the Minnesota Capitol in St. Paul also was scheduled for Saturday, with student organizers predicting a turnout of 40,000.

National Guardsmen patrolled the campus of the University of Wisconsin in the fourth day of violent antiwar demonstrations, during which firefighters doused 40 to 50 blazes. The school's president, Fred Harvey Harrington, announced his resignation, saying he had been planning to quit before the outbreaks.

War Fund Shutoff Movement Grows

WASHINGTON (AP) — Moves to shut off funds for the Indochina war spread rapidly on Capitol Hill Friday as thousands of young people swarmed through the corridors and across the spacious lawns in a massive and peaceful lobbying effort.

"I like you fellows fine, but they're more explosive," quipped Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, as he hurried from a news conference to one of the innumerable meetings going on all over the hill.

Muskie had met hastily with newsmen to announce yet another in a series of resolutions and amendments being offered separately or to various military spending bills aimed at denying the President the money to wage war.

Muskie's is a catch-all resolution that he will introduce Monday laying down a broad policy for disengagement from Southeast Asia. It starts with a call for a cease-fire, withdrawal from Cambodia and an end to U.S. bombing.

"It's a vehicle for the Senate to express its will if other attempts don't work," said the rangy Democrat. "I wouldn't like to see all our legislative exertions come to nothing."

Six other Senate war critics held a news conference to announce a massive nationwide campaign for an amendment that would bar all spending for fighting in Asia by next June.

Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., said the campaign-starting with creation of a bipartisan congressional committee—will be patterned after the recent successful nationwide effort to defeat the Supreme Court nomination of G. Harrold Carswell.

McGovern said it probably will take two to four weeks to arouse the nation so citizens will bring pressure on their congressmen. Meanwhile, he said, intensive lobbying will be conducted on Capitol Hill.

Joining McGovern were Republican Sens. Charles E. Goodell of New York and Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon and Democrats Alan Cranston of California, Harold F. Hughes of Iowa and Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin.

Enemy Resistance Slackens In Cambodia

North Vietnamese Suffer Defeat

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese forces launched a series of attacks in the northern reaches of South Vietnam Friday but they suffered a stinging defeat in the biggest battle there. Enemy resistance slackened in Cambodia base areas after one brisk fight.

South Vietnamese infantrymen following up a U.S. B52 bombing raid clashed with a North Vietnamese force defending a base area south of the demilitarized zone. They reported 215 enemy killed in the combined attack.

Associated Press correspondent Willis Johnson reported from Quang Tri that the day-long battle began when the 54th Regiment moved into the Da Krong Valley, 17 miles south of the demilitarized zone, to assess the effect of the B52 strike.

The North Vietnamese troops stood and fought to defend the base camp but withdrew shortly before dusk. The government forces, supported by American fighter-bombers, reported counting 93 enemy killed by air strikes and 122 by the infantrymen. They also found a warehouse containing 1½ tons of supplies.

In another battle, this one inside Cambodia, U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division soldiers suffered eight killed north of the Fishhook region. This was the largest number of Americans killed in a single operation in Cambodia. The U.S. Command said 24 North Vietnamese were killed.

The North Vietnamese, however, were on a rampage in the northern provinces of South Vietnam. Da Nang was shelled and ground attacks were launched against the provincial capitals of Tam Ky and Hoi An.

An American armored column from the 5th Mechanized Infantry Division that had been supporting government operations in the Da Krong Valley area was attacked as it was pulling out. More than a dozen American casualties were reported. The U.S. troops reported killing 11 North Vietnamese.

In the attack on Tam Ky, U.S. sources said enemy sappers ran through their own mortar and rocket barrage before dawn and reached the barbed wire perimeter but were driven back. Thirteen enemy bodies were found in the wire.

About an hour after dawn, rocket barrage hit the city, killing several children on their way to school, sources said. The shelling and ground attack killed 30 Vietnamese and wounded nearly 100, most of them civilians.

Seven militia outposts outside the city also were attacked.

At Hoi An, Viet Cong guerrillas reached the streets of the city before being driven back.

Supply depots in both capitals were raided, sources reported.

At least 64 towns and bases, including 17 American installations, were shelled in the coordinated enemy strike. Most of the targets, especially those hit by ground attacks, were in the 1st Corps area where the North Vietnamese recently have been building up their forces and where they are least affected by the allied forays into Cambodia.

The operations against base camps across the border in Cambodia presumably have knocked the enemy forces in the central and southern regions off balance.

Enemy resistance in Cambodia appeared to have tapered off late Friday. U.S. forces reported only scattered actions as they and South Vietnamese troops continued to search through huge supply caches found this week.

Associated Press correspondent Hugh Van Es, with the U.S. 25th Infantry Division northwest of Tay Ninh, inside Cambodia, reported that Cambodian villagers said more than 3,000 North Vietnamese troops on foot and bicycles headed west away from the border Wednesday. Officers said they believed part of the story but thought 500 was a more accurate figure.

There had been plenty of action the day before in Cambodia's Parrot's Beak south of the Fishhook. A South Vietnamese task force of armor and rangers hit an enemy position north of Svay Rieng, a provincial capital 30 miles west of South Vietnam's border.

In a battle that lasted into the night, the South Vietnamese lost 50 killed and more than 200 wounded. Saigon said 234 enemy soldiers were killed and 106 captured. The South Vietnamese casualties were the heaviest since the Cambodian operations began.

The North Vietnamese fought from bunkers and beat off repeated charges by the ranger before the rangers and tanks moved in, blowing up and crushing bunkers.

Allied headquarters claimed 3,865 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops had been killed in Cambodia and thousands of tons of munitions and food have been captured in a half dozen operations since they began April 29.

U.S. losses were put at 49 killed and 148 wounded. South Vietnamese headquarters said 237 government troops have been killed and 1,051 wounded. Southwest of Saigon, a flotilla of 50 South Vietnamese boats began moving toward the border for an operation up the Mekong River that was announced by the Foreign Ministry Thursday. It seemed unlikely the movement would begin before Saturday.

The Foreign Ministry said it would be a relief operation to carry supplies to Vietnamese living in Cambodia. Other sources insisted, however, that it was primarily a military operation against enemy forces who control the banks of the river for half the 60-mile distance to Phnom Penh, the capital.

The situation inside Cambodia brightened somewhat when U.S. trained mobile strike forces of Cambodians born in South Vietnam took the field, ready to move down Highway 1 to Svay Rieng. About 2,000 of them have been flown in from South Vietnam.

Members of the unit said they hoped to go over to the attack Saturday after a careful survey of the battlefield terrain.

Farther down Highway 1 lies Neak Luong, a ferry crossing 37 miles southeast of Phnom Penh that is held by enemy forces. About 2,000 Cambodian regulars trying to retake Neak Luong from positions six miles away beat off three attacks by North Vietnamese regulars but made no advance. The Cambodians said they counted 23 enemy dead. Cambodian losses were three killed.

Soviet Navy Ships Sail Into Caribbean Friday

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — Three Soviet navy ships sailed into the Caribbean Sea on an unknown mission Friday, and the U.S. Navy dispatched a guided missile destroyer to keep them under surveillance.

A Navy spokesman at the 10th Naval District in San Juan said the Dahlgren, a destroyer with a speed of 34 knots, was maintaining visual contact with the Soviet vessels—two conventionally powered submarines and a submarine tender.

Three other Soviet ships — a guided missile destroyer, a guided missile cruiser and an oiler—also were headed for Caribbean waters about 250 miles behind the first group.

The submarines and their tender sailed through the Mona Passage that separates Puerto Rico and the Dominican Republic.

The Navy spokesman said there is no clear idea as to where the Soviet vessels are headed. The Mona Passage provides the most direct route between the Atlantic and the coast of South America.

The spokesman recalled, however, that last July a nine-vessel Soviet flotilla went through the Mona Passage on a goodwill voyage to Cuba in connection with the 25th anniversary celebration of Fidel Castro's revolution.

The commanding officer of the U.S. 10th Naval District, Adm. Norvell Ward, conferred at Roosevelt with Richard A. W. — deputy assistant secretary of defense for international security affairs.

The 10th Naval District said the Soviet ships have been under surveillance by U.S. ships and by aircraft operating from Roosevelt Roads and Bermuda.

The Threat To Liberty

Less than a generation ago, the tapped wire, the bugged room, the secret informer evoked contempt and ridicule in the minds of most Americans. These were the marks of police states in a jaded Old World. It could not happen here.

It is happening here now.

The argument over the wire tap is no longer whether but how much, by whom and how it can be made admissible evidence in court.

Leslie Fiedler, a literary critic and teacher, was recently convicted of allowing the use of marijuana in his home on the basis of information supplied by a teen-age girl, a "friend of the family." She had acted as a police spy and recorded private conversations with the aid of a microphone concealed in her dress while she was a guest in Mr. Fiedler's house.

In 1920, Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer, following some anarchist bombs and bomb threats, wrote in his annual report: "...There must be established a systematic and thorough supervision over the unlawful activities of certain persons and organizations... whose sole purposes were to commit acts of terrorism or to advocate, by word of mouth and by the circulation of literature" the subversion of the government.

Mr. Palmer boasted of a file containing 200,000 biographies and records of speeches of persons "with radical connections." Such dossiers seem puny compared to the store of computerized intelligence data banks maintained today by a host of agencies, from the Justice Department to the military.

No serious student of history now believes that the Palmer forays against civil liberties contributed to the nation's survival. Yet, his obsession with surveillance and his scrambling of action and advocacy are once again being elevated to public policy, with infinitely greater efficiency.

Under the guise of essential attacks on crime, police and investigatory powers are being sharpened for potential use against political offenders. Preventive detention is being advocated, when too many suspects are already imprisoned too long before being brought to trial. No-knock entry into private premises and the rifling of confidential records are being justified as weapons against narcotics.

Political snooping has seriously jeopardized the confidentiality of income tax returns and diminished the privilege of reporters' files. Personal mail is increasingly subject to scrutiny.

As if to underscore the hegemony of the police mentality, even at the Cabinet level, the Attorney General has overruled the Secretary of State in denying a European Marxist scholar's request for admission to attend a scholarly meeting here.

There are those who say that the growing reliance on surveillance, with lines blurred between the legitimate attack on crime and the illegitimate repression of dissent, is the price of America's role as a great power, but that is to misread the country's destiny. The nation's greatness springs from its dream of greater freedoms for all, not from a nightmare of restricted liberties for some. Today, no less than in earlier times of trouble, the Bill of Rights offers the best, perhaps the last, hope to carry the torch against the forces of dark suspicion and fear.

'Let This Madness Cease'

Let this madness cease.

By some evil alchemy of events the United States has increasingly found itself to be an embittered, sun-drenched, hatred-ridden nation. And now it has found itself with a supreme tragedy on its hands: two young men and two young women killed because of youth's passionate clash with society.

It is crucially important that this tragedy bring all Americans to their senses, to a realization of the perilous path they are treading, to a determination to reexamine the needs and the methods which have brought the country to this tragic situation. For this is less and less the "blest America" of two centuries of vision. It is more and more like a snarling jungle.

No sector of society, no center of power, no area of leadership is free from the responsibility which attaches itself to these national circumstances. Its weight lies upon public leadership which has often not been sensitive or constructive enough. It involves the failure of the American public as a whole to move fast enough to do away with racial, social, economic injustices. It involves an intellectual community which has too frequently failed to distinguish between constructive open-mindedness and irresponsible permissiveness. It has been fed by a failure on the part of too many young people to distinguish between the rightness of objectiveness and the wrongness of methods.

If the nation as a whole does not see and recognize such truths, and bend its will to seek a greater degree of progressive consensus, it may have many sad lessons to learn.

Yet we are confident that the right lesson will be learned. Indeed, we can foresee how the tragedy at Kent State University can serve as a warning bell in the ear of every sincere thoughtful American, calling him to a reassessment of current attitudes, objectives and methods.

We urge President Nixon to greater efforts to achieve that "bringing together" which America so clearly hoped would be the hallmark of his administration. While there can be no disagreement with the basic truth of his statement that "when dissent turns to violence, it invites tragedy," a more unifying touch is what is now called for.

And we urge all Americans to remember that America's great strength and progress have come from an essential unity in diversity. It is a land of many peoples and many concepts. But it has, throughout its history, held to certain unifying principles and certain universally benefiting goals. A return to this state of thought will open new paths of progress in which all can join.

Legal Support For Cambodian Action Sought

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration's legal defense of American military action in Cambodia seeks support in the U.S. Constitution and the U.N. Charter and rejects the suggestion Cambodian neutrality has been violated.

But this position is challenged by a former State Department legal adviser who is a recognized international law expert, Harvard Prof. Abram Chayes accuses President Nixon of flouting international law and says his administration has no respect for national boundaries. Nixon did not set forth any legal basis in announcing the action to the American public April 30 except to say "I shall meet my responsibility as commander in chief of our armed forces to take the action I consider necessary to defend the security of our American men." He relied on Article II Section 2 of the Constitution which provides "the president shall be commander in chief of the Army and Navy of the United States."

Internationally, the government is mindful of the general prohibition to the use of force in the U.N. Charter. But it notes that Article 51 reserves "the inherent right of individual or collective self-defense if an armed attack occurs against a member of the United Nations."

Ambassador Charles W. Yost called this exception to the attention of Secretary General U Thant in a letter May 5. Yost described the military move as an appropriate measure of collective self-defense by U.S. and South Vietnamese armed forces.

To this, a government source added: "When the action is coming from a neutral country which is unable to protect its territory from being used, our position is you are entitled to take self-defensive action on the neutral's territory."

The source, a knowledgeable official who asked that his name not be used, said he was emphasizing that the neutral country, Cambodia, was unable to take defensive action against North Vietnamese forces.

Chayes, legal adviser in the State Department from 1961 to 1964, quarrels strenuously with these views. He says the administration "isn't giving real consideration to the international legal issues involved."

In a telephone interview from Harvard, Chayes said it is debatable whether Nixon's constitutional power as commander in chief includes authority to send troops into neutral Cambodia.

At the same time, Chayes said the Constitution clearly gives Congress the authority to stop him by cutting off military appropriations. "You don't have to have committee members running around crying about the usurpation of congressional powers," Chayes said.

Such an effort has been launched by Sens. George McGovern, D-S.D., and Mark Hatfield, R-Ore. They have introduced an amendment to the defense authorization bill to cut off U.S. funds for Southeast Asia other than for the withdrawal of American troops.

Chayes disputes the administration's interpretation of the U.N. Charter. He says Article 51 is cast in terms of an armed defense to an armed attack.

"The President spoke of sanctuaries, which simply means they were on the other side of the border from Vietnam. That condition had existed for five years. There is no showing that it is a real threat to the survival and safety of our troops in the area."

Chayes added: "We are, after all, crossing the boundary of a nation that is not involved in a conflict and we're doing it without the consent of even the new government of that country, without consulting it, without consulting SEATO (the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization) or any of the organizations which have authority in the area."

"In fact, without consulting our own Congress."

The government source, in discussing the president's constitutional prerogatives, said the constitution gives him authority "to take all reasonable action to protect our troops which were already committed in a conflict long under way when this administration took office and to bring about their withdrawal under circumstances contributing to a durable peace."

It is North Vietnam, the official said, that is violating Cambodia's neutrality and seriously increasing the danger to U.S. and allied forces in South Vietnam.

The official said the administration was not relying on the 1964 Tonkin Gulf Resolution, a statement of congressional support of "all necessary measures to repel any armed attack against the forces of the United States."

Chayes scoffs at the suggestion the United States is acting out of self-defense to a big military threat.

"Of course," he said, "everybody knows that there have been bases, sanctuaries there for five years or more, so it is not the kind of thing that amounts to a sudden threat that you have to act on to maintain the safety of our forces. In fact, we have maintained the safety of our forces for five years in the same situation."

"The act is, a change of government in that country and the succession of a more disorganized government seemed to present an opportunity to violate the rights of the government with impunity."

Chayes said when he was with the State Department any action of this kind was always accompanied by a legal memo justifying the President's action.

"All by itself," Chayes said, "this shows the President was prepared to flout or ignore international law."

Tet, '71, May Test U.S. Troop Cuts

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) — The big test for President Nixon's Vietnam combat troop withdrawal timetable is likely to come with the Vietnamese Tet holiday period in February, 1971.

By that time, if the President has kept the pullout pace at the present level of about 12,000 men a month, our combat forces will be down to about 36,000 above the 284,000-man total ground force—including predominantly support elements—which Nixon has fixed for May, 1971.

Pentagon and other government sources believe Hanoi will wait at least that long and possibly longer before trying any really substantial attacks which would test fully the mettle of the South Vietnamese armies taking over the combat burden.

The quick-shot North Vietnamese assaults of recent times, though obviously co-ordinated and capable of lifting our casualty rates, are not seen in official circles as militarily significant, yet they are, of course, nearly impossible to prevent.

This government, in fact, expects still stronger 1970 drives by Hanoi in both the southern Delta and eastward from the A Shaw Valley in northern South Vietnam, but insists that, in combination with Saigon's up-trained forces, it can contain these anticipated moves. It does not see them interfering with the withdrawal pace.

The time of Tet in 1971 may be something else. It is then, or soon thereafter, that U.S. officials think Hanoi may decide to commit forces of multidivisional strength against our severely diminished combat units and Saigon's largely untested armies presumably toughened under the "Vietnamization" program.

Optimists in the Pentagon think such a Red offensive, probably directed straight at Saigon and using North Vietnamese and Viet Cong units mostly quartered in Cambodia can also be blunted.

The optimism is founded on several assertions made privately by U.S. authorities. One is that Red forces are about 40,000 fewer today than those available for use in South Vietnam a year or two ago. Another is that Red infiltration of men from North Vietnam, though still important, is proceeding at a rate just half that of 1969. It is said further that only 105,000 men came down the Ho Chi Minh Trail last year as compared with 250,000 in 1968.

Moreover, U.S. sources insist that Hanoi's three or four major offensives of 1968-69 seriously stripped its military infrastructure of vitally needed guides, porters and other support units. These losses, it is argued, caused the big Red pullback of mid-1969, the political yielding of countless villages and the surprising gains in Saigon's pacification program.

Hanoi's sudden turn to talk of a long, slow war—despite the U.S. troop pullout program—was taken here as proof of Communist difficulties.

Cautious U.S. officials recognize that the script may not be worked out this neatly.

They know the danger that Vietnamization may not work as hoped for, that Hanoi's infiltration may be stepped up even in bad weather, that the Reds may strike with telling force against South Vietnamese units known to be habitually weak.

Furthermore, knowledgeable critics of U.S. policy think our optimism wholly unwarranted, that Hanoi can mount a big assault damaging to Saigon almost as it wishes. They rate Red forces about as strong as ever.

Yet, curiously, both the optimists and the pessimists believe Hanoi, while it must do enough meantime to maintain fighting credibility, has most to gain by waiting until all or most of our combat forces are gone. It might even let Tet, 1971, go by without a big ripple.

Ann Landers:

Virginity 'Evidence' Debated

Dear Ann Landers: In a recent column you said a man could not tell for sure if a woman is a virgin. That was one of the most terrible statements you have ever made. In the first place it is untrue, and in the second place it gives the green light to every girl who thinks she can fool around and pass herself off as pure on her wedding night.

I am enclosing a clipping of a news story from Reuters. The dateline is Naples. This story reports that a 30-year-old bride who claimed she was a virgin was legally banished by her groom. The husband, a 30-year-old fisherman named Angelo, had heard rumors concerning his future wife, Vincenza. When he asked her about the rumors, she swore they were lies. On their wedding night Angelo left Vincenza because he learned the rumors were true.

The following week, Angelo went to the church to get the marriage annulled. The Tribunal heard the case. Medical evidence was produced which proved the girl had ceased to be a virgin one year before the marriage. An annulment was granted.

You have a responsibility to your millions of readers to retract your statement at once.—No Faith in You

Dear No Faith: If all the old wives tales about virginity were laid end to end they would reach from here to Naples. In some instances, it is possible to ascertain virginity. In many cases the "evidence" is non-existent or highly doubtful. One of my medical consultants told me of two patients who were technically virgins and pregnant. Another physician said he had examined at least 50 young girls who had no clinical evidence of virginity yet he was certain the girls were telling the truth when they said they had not had sexual intercourse.

In the case of Angelo and his bride, the statement that a girl ceased to be a virgin one year before her wedding night raises so many medical questions that the "trial" was at best preposterous. I've said it before and I say it again. Churches should stick to moral and spiritual matters and stay out of medicine.

Dear Ann Landers: My wife and I are not people who let things go till the last minute. We plan everything ahead and it sure does save a lot of headaches. This evening we were discussing our 1970 Christmas card.

In past years we've always had the names of our children on the card along with ours. Our last chick left the nest in January so our next card will have only our names. Should it be Rose and Jay or Jay and Rose? My wife says the woman's name is supposed to be first. I'm sure I read somewhere that the man's name should be first if it is shorter. Please hurry your answer.—Impasse

Dear Im: I'm typing as fast as I can and I hope this reaches you in time. There are only 230 days till Christmas. The woman's name should appear first if the card is printed. If the wife is signing the card, she should put her husband's name first.

And while you're at it—please use your last name. Every year we receive dozens of cards—from Dick and Dorothy??? Bob and Kathy??? John and Sue???

Shoe Polish, Liquid Wax Conceal Floor Scratches

By POLLY CRAMER
DEAR POLLY—This is for Janice, who has scratched hardwood floors. If she will mix a bottle of brown liquid shoe polish with a can of liquid wax and wax her floors as usual, they will take on a sheen like new. The scratches will seem to disappear.—ALTA

DEAR GIRLS—I found this worked well on a floor that had been previously waxed with liquid wax. If the scratches are only in the wax and not the floor, the scratches will show less. If paste wax had been used on the floor, brown paste polish could be applied to the scratches, then buffed to a name tapes, so I put a length of adhesive tape on a piece of probably are in the floor finish and the wax would have to be removed. When a refinishing job is not possible, a cotton swab dipped in iodine could be used to tint the scratches, then quickly wiped off the adjoining floor so its color does not become too dark. Follow this with a new waxing.—POLLY

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY—What is the recommended care for marble floors?—K.M.

DEAR POLLY—I do not know what I would do without your informative column. When getting my young son's things ready for camp, I ran out of name tapes, so I put a length of adhesive tape on a piece of waxed paper, rolled it in the typewriter and typed on the required information. The waxed paper peels off easily. They certainly are inexpensive and so easy to apply where needed. This is a good idea for college students, too.—MRS. J.M.

DEAR POLLY—Whenever I embroider pillowcases or anything in pairs, I always work on both simultaneously. I do the pink flowers on one case, then the pink ones on the other and so on. I am not always threading my needle with different colors and do not have so many leftover pieces of floss. I also avoid any possible boredom by using this method, have the pair completed at one time and do not have that feeling of starting the same thing all over again.—MRS. L.S.

DEAR POLLY—My daughter had trouble keeping her new boots standing up straight until I had the idea of taking a stout grocery bag, folding it a few times, lengthwise, and sticking it down in the boots, which is then zipped up. They stand up great and do not fold over at the top and get scuffed. MRS. C. P.

Recital Does Not A Danseuse Make

We're getting into recital time. This is when fathers say, "I paid $250 this year to hear THAT?" and mothers say, "Watch closely—there she is—Valerie's the one in the back row of butterflies," and teachers say, "Next year, an air-conditioned hall or else."

Parents give different reasons for sending their children dutifully off for music instruction and dancing lessons and vocal lessons. But mainly it narrows down to one reason—they want to give their children "cultural advantages." What is "cultural" about little Darlene wearing a red embroidered costume and clicking her taps or having Jerome pick out what sounds like the left hand doing "Country Gardens" and the right hand playing "The Marines' Hymn" on the piano has never been fully explained to me.

Nevertheless, most parents feel that signing the checks isn't enough. They really believe they should show up at recitals.

When my husband and I attended our daughters' recital, we settled down in anticipation. To be truthful, I settled in anticipation. He settled in anticipation. The curtain rose on 15 little girls, ten of whom were standing, three of whom were sitting backwards, two of whom were rolling towards the edge of the stage. Our program called it "Caprice."

As the pianist repeatedly sounded the opening chord, the audience cooed, "Aren't they adorable!" and the dancers were coaxed into line. After a few touch-your-toes and some charmingly wobbly arabesques, they retreated brilliantly to the wings. All except our youngest daughter, who thought the applause meant she should return for three curtain calls.

"That's it?" her father asked. "Wonderful, aren't they?" I said. "Not one with stage fright!"

"That's it?" he insisted. "She went every single week for a year and that's it?"

"It's an investment in the future," I whispered.

We breathlessly awaited the next group—a pastel-colored tableau featuring our eldest daughter, along with some 20 other girls.

Swaying gently to and fro like the flowers they represented, the girls took turns lurching into their solos. I tapped my fingers quietly in time to the music, praying nobody would fall in their first toe shoe dance.

"Fifteen dollars for that gauze she's wearing?" I nodded.

"Was she supposed to stumble that way?"

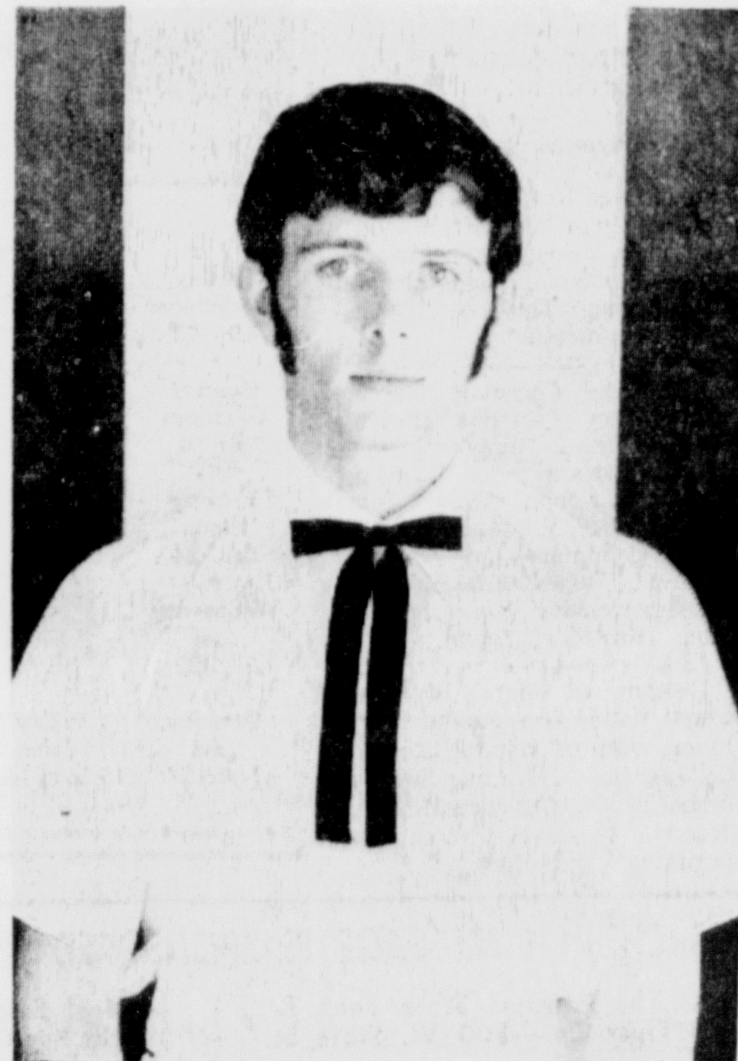

I glared. "Rome wasn't built in a day," I hissed, "and neither is a dancer."

I'm pretty sure he said something then about a ton of bricks but I couldn't hear him above the applause.

Dere Mommy, Happy Mothrs Day!

The red rose decorating the notebook paper is a little lopsided, and the spelling is awful. But what a wealth of love went into the message. I know, because I was the little girl who made it.

Now it's my little girl who struggles with pen and crayon to fashion a card of love for me.

And as I watch her I think of Mama — sliding down the back hill with us in Daddy's worn-out knickers, kneeling with us as she heard our prayers, singing sweetly Sunday mornings as she stood between us in the family pew. I remember her joy in life, the way her Christian faith glowed in everything she said and did.

Do you wonder that our church is a continuing source of joy and strength for me and my family?

YOUR BIRTHDAY and HOROSCOPE

SATURDAY, MAY 9—Born today, you are highly sensitive to the moods of others. Your best work is done with the support of others; your least productive periods result a great deal more from the opposition of others than from any inability of your own. On the other hand, when you are certain of your talents and determined to make the most of them, it takes considerable more opposition than most people would admit to to cause you to fail irrevocably.

You have a particular fondness for young people and instinctively know both how to get along with them and how to get the most out of them. You would make an excellent teacher your ability to put yourself in a youngster's place would prove invaluable both for you as the teacher and for your students who would find you much more than a simple source of knowledge. You have a special knack for instructing the handicapped.

Your personal relationships will at times seem precarious, but you are calm and patient and should be able to set things to rights before serious consequences result. Willing to give more than your share to any relationship, you must at the same time take care that you don't relieve others of all responsibility for seeing that relationships are permanent.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Sunday, May 10

TAURUS (April 21-May 21)—Make it your business to see that there is equality of opportunity among family members today. Don't allow youngsters to be shunted aside.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)—Morning worship must not be neglected. A day which can bring simple things into the sharpest, most enjoyable focus.

Industrialists Support Drive Into Cambodia

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP)—The nation's top industrialists almost unanimously support the U.S. drive into Cambodia but express grave concern over public pessimism and uncertainty and—in a few cases—sharply criticize Nixon's handling of antiwar protests on college campuses.

Some members of the Business Council, opening their spring meeting here with five Cabinet officers and other high administration officials, told reporters privately they feel the psychological impact of the Cambodia incursions could turn the present economic slowdown into a real recession.

One industry leader said he felt that not only the administration but members of the business community "should get out on the campuses and do more talking and listening to young people—I think they will listen if we try it."

Several businessmen agreed that public confidence had been seriously shaken by apprehension over the possible spreading of warfare in Southeast Asia, as reflected in the stock market slump, the revival of fears of prolonged inflation, and the resurgence of violent demonstrations across the country.

Some also concurred in the hard line taken by Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew on youthful protesters. One observed: "The country can use a little more discipline and a little less affluence."

The Business Council, a private organization which offers research and advisory help to federal agencies on economic matters, was established in the early years of the Great Depression. It originally was an advisory body to the Commerce Department, but severed that connection in 1961.

Plan Extension District Meet

Final plans for the Morgan County Home Extension District meeting May 14 were made by the council at a recent meeting. Ten members, Mrs. Tholen and Mrs. Anderson, attended.

The meeting will be at North Jacksonville school at 8:00 p.m. The program, "Continuing Education," is a panel. Mrs. Richard Reynolds, Mrs. Max Hallock, Mrs. Marvin Sims, and Mrs. Marvin Tholen, moderator.

The McCalls pattern program April 21 at the Blackhawk was attended by 200 ladies from this area.

Fifteen women have completed the short and slack fitting classes during April. Seventeen 4-H and junior leaders attended the program, "You and your Sewing Machine" held at the Singer Sewing Store. Both classes were taught by Mary Lou Anderson.

The Town and Country Art show at the Jacksonville State Hospital was attended by over 300 people. Artists were from Morgan, Scott, and Greene counties.

The following ladies helped at the Morgan County Extension booth at the Jaycee Home Show: Mrs. Edwy Chumley, Mrs. Richard Norfleet, Mrs. Darrell Wynn, Mrs. Robert Daniel, Mrs. Edward Scott, Mrs. William Becker, Mrs. Lloyd Smith, Mrs. Russell Wynn, Mrs. Howard Hess, Mrs. Russell Heaton, and Mrs. Darryl Tegeder. About 500 various pamphlets were mailed to persons requesting them.

The annual Citizenship Conference will be June 17-18 on the University of Illinois Campus. The theme is "Our Heritage and our Future." A story and slides of the Merry Maids unit at Jacksonville State Hospital will be shown at the conference.

Approximately 400 4-H boys and girls attended the annual rally at the YMCA April 25. Morgan County will have nine 4-H members going to the Citizenship Shortcourse in Washington, D. C. in June.

June 21 will be the annual 4-H picnic for family and friends at Western Illinois 4-H camp.

Nixon

ulate on what the North Vietnamese would do, but he added that if they should move across the DMZ he would not allow U.S. Marines to be massacred without using more force.

"We have warned the North Vietnamese on this point and I do not believe the North Vietnamese will move," he said.

Nixon was asked whether the South Vietnamese forces were governed by the same pull-out July 1 deadline from Cambodia as the U.S. forces.

Nixon said they are not, but he anticipates they would come out at the same time.

Nixon said the first American units would leave Cambodia by the end of next week, the second group of units the following week, and all U.S. units would leave Cambodia by the end of June.

He said Vietnamese units would probably leave Cambodia about the same time because U.S. air and ground support for them would be leaving.

Asked about his meetings with university officials and his pledge that administration officials would tone down criticism of demonstrating students, Nixon said Vice President Spiro T. Agnew would answer for anything he says, but that he would not censure Agnew for his views, or Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel for his criticism of administration handling of protesters.

Nixon said Hickel has "very strong views. He's outspoken and courageous. That's one of the reasons I picked him for the Cabinet."

He said he would consider Hickel's advice, and jokingly suggested that Hickel give some advice to Postmaster General Winton Blount as well.

Hickel's letter, urging the President to pay more attention to the nation's youth, was meant to be personal but was leaked to the press.

Nixon said he would regret that his use of the word "bums" to describe some college rioters was applied to all who dissent.

"On university campus the rule of reason is supposed to prevail over the rule of force," he said.

He said that when students burn buildings, then the word "bum" is "too kind of a word."

Asked the proper action of police or National Guardsmen faced with a rock-throwing crowd on a campus, Nixon said he thought a good job along those lines had been done in Washington during the antiwar protest last November.

"I have hoped that the experience we have had in that respect could be shared by the National Guard," he said.

He said he has asked for the facts about the fatal shooting of four students at Kent State University in Ohio and would comment after he gets those facts.

But he noted that whenever there is a rock-throwing crowd there is a danger of such tragedies.

Asked about his campaign aim to bring Americans together, bring peace to Vietnam, Nixon said "Don't judge us too quickly." He said very important talks are going on about arms limitation with the Soviet Union.

"But I will predict now that there will be an agreement," he said.

"I say, that where the problem of arms is concerned, here's where our interests are together. The Soviet Union has just as much interest as we have in seeing there is some limitation on nuclear arms," he said.

He was asked about the rise in unemployment and the decline in the stock market.

Unemployment has reached the point of 4.8 per cent, he said, adding that it was higher in previous years, but that "4.8 is also too high."

He said it is the result of the cooling of the economy in the fight against inflation and that toward the end of this year, the economy would begin to resume growth.

"I believe that the year 1970 will be a good year economically," he said.

Back on the subject of Cambodia, Nixon was asked whether Secretary of State William P. Rogers and his adviser Henry Kissinger raised objections to his intention to send troops into Cambodia. Nixon said all of his advisers raised questions about his decision.

"And I raised the most questions," Nixon said.

"After hearing all their advice, I made the decision," he said. "I take the responsibility for it. I believe it is the right decision. I believe it will work out. If it doesn't, I'm to blame."

Nixon was asked about predictions that Viet Cong could re-establish their Cambodian bases after American troops are withdrawn, he said the thrust into Cambodia had set back North Vietnamese training, and led to the capture of many weapons that "will not be killing Americans in the next few months."

If the enemy comes back to the sanctuaries, next time "the South Vietnamese will be strong enough to handle it alone," he said.

Nixon said it was his responsibility to protect Americans in Viet Nam and bring them home as soon as possible. "This action will assure the continued success of that program," he said of the Cambodian thrust, but "only history will record whether it was worthwhile."

Asked about criticism of the justification he gave for going into Cambodia, Nixon replied that President Lyndon B. Johnson wanted peace and was given a "bad rap" to the effect that he wanted war.

Nixon said the current action puts the enemy on warning that the United States will move quickly instead of step by step if he tries to escalate the war.

"I suppose one way to avoid air pollution is to stop breathing—that seems a little too drastic, though!"

Three Mishaps Occur Friday; None Injured

Police issued the driver of one car a ticket for improper backing after her vehicle struck a car on the square at 3:57 p.m. Friday.

Mabel E. Obert, of 235 West Chambers, was backing from a parking place and pulled into the path of a second car on the west side of the square.

The second vehicle was driven by Terry S. Blakeman, 18, of rural Ashland.

Another accident caused damage to two cars in the intersection of Dunlap Court and Reed Alleys at 4:12 p.m.

Craig W. Schwalb, 19, of Meredosia, was southbound on Dunlap Court Alley and struck a car broadside in the intersection. The other vehicle was driven by Ruby M. Gaines, of 504 North Church. Schwalb told police he saw the approaching car but was unable to stop in time to avoid the collision.

John C. Neece, 19, of White Hall, reported the third accident at police headquarters.

Neece said he was pulling to the curb in the 800 block of Grove, when he cut in too sharply, hitting the left front of a parked car owned by Ada Ring of Chapin.

MARILYN MATHY HONORED AT CASS SHOWER

ASHLAND — A miscellaneous shower was held Tuesday night in the Library club room in honor of Miss Marilyn Mathy, who will be married to David C. Dean Saturday, May 16, at the Ashland Church of Christ.

The shower was sponsored by Mrs. Brenda Matthews, Mrs. Janet Mathy and Miss Gloria Savage.

James Conner returned to his home here Tuesday afternoon from the Memorial hospital, Springfield, where he had undergone two operations in the past few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen W. Sergeant of San Francisco, Calif., and Mrs. Leta Hammack were dinner guests of Mrs. Lela Grogan Wednesday noon. Mrs. Sergeant is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Otis Hewitt of Ashland.

nd attended Ashland schools.

The remains of J. Elroy Scholes, 72, of Virginia, were brought to Ashland Wednesday morning for burial in St. Augustine's cemetery. He is the father of Mrs. Helen Scholes of this city.

Shaffer said the association originally had expected 25 of the nation's 32 Republican governors, but the list dwindled steadily as disorders mounted across the nation. Only 12 governors were planning to attend as of Thursday.

Shaffer said the decision to cancel was made after conversations with his fellow Republican governors.

"We feel a deep responsibility to keep our avenues of communications open with our home communities," Shaffer said.

MORE ANTI-CASTRO RAIDERS LAND IN CUBA

MIAMI (AP) — A second group of anti-Castro raiders has landed in Cuba, according to an exile radio broadcast.

Salvador Lew of Miami radio station WQBA identified the invaders as commandos of the Christian Nationalist Movement. He said the Miami-based group encountered no opposition in landing.

Lew gave no details. However, Pablo Castellon, who identified himself as a spokesman for the CNM, said the invaders were led by Capt. Orlando Lorenzo, 34-year-old secretary-general of the movement.

The invasion report came three weeks after Fidel Castro said his forces crushed a raiding party mounted by Alpha 66, another exile group based in Miami.

The maximum penalty is a fine of $2,500, according to Thomas A. Foran, U.S. district attorney.

Ogilvie Calls More National Guardsmen

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Another 3,300 National Guardsmen were called up Friday by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie as a precaution against further violence in the burgeoning student strike on college campuses of Illinois.

About 500 of the new muster will be deployed in the Evanston area, a governor's aide said, although they will not be posted on the Northwestern University campus. This was in compliance with the request of Evanston city officials, the spokesman said.

Meanwhile, 300 to 750 troops who already were on standby were deployed at Dyche Stadium, five minutes from the campus.

Northwestern students, with classes suspended, continued a blockade of Sheridan Road and a door-to-door leaflet campaign seeking public support of their protest against the Vietnam war, troops on campus and the slaying of four students early this week in a demonstration at Kent State University in Ohio.

But there was no new violence at Northwestern.

The governor's aide did not indicate where other additional troops would be stationed. The Friday call boosted the total of National Guardsmen on station or on alert to about 9,000.

Southern Illinois University and the City of Carbondale clamped a tough curfew and other restrictions on that community for Friday and Saturday after a night of rioting.

Curfew hours were 7:30 p.m. till 6 a.m.; sales of liquor, firearms and ammunition were banned, and sale of gasoline in containers was prohibited.

Chancellor Robert MacVicar announced that student curfew violators would be subject to summary suspension. Meetings of more than 25 persons were banned.

The Carbondale Chamber of Commerce announced that SIU would be billed for damages to 78 businesses Thursday night in rioting broken up with the help of tear gas by state troopers and national Guardsmen carrying unloaded rifles but with fixed bayonets. The dollar amount of damage had not been figured.

A mob of 2,000 blockaded the downtown intersection of U.S. 51 and Illinois 13, halted a passenger train for 50 minutes and then went on a rock-throwing, window-smashing rampage.

The box score included 70 arrests, 28 for curfew violations; 59 injured, including one policeman and one guardsman. Several businesses reported looting after window-smashing.

Four more Illinois colleges were officially closed Friday, raising the total to 10.

Chancellor Norman A. Parker ordered classes suspended at the Chicago Circle Campus of the University of Illinois, saying, "Without outside assistance we cannot preserve the security of the campus and of persons and property."

A young woman was slugged with a pipe in the Circle Campus science and engineering building Thursday night.

President Edward H. Levi canceled University of Chicago classes to provide "time for memorial and rethinking of national purpose" and for "faculty ruling bodies to seek ways to preserve freedom, integrity and purpose of the institution."

Shimer College in Mount Carroll and Kendall College in Evanston also called off classes Friday.

While student groups at Northwestern and Roosevelt University in Chicago called for consideration of closing for the rest of the school year, a conservative students organization said it planned legal action to stop such a move — at any school.

William J. Macarow Jr., chairman of Young Americans for Freedom, said YAF would seek injunctions to prevent any school closing for the rest of the term. If unsuccessful, he said, YAF would file suit to recover tuition for all students.

Macarow said, however, YAF would not act in cases of suspension of classes for a few days.

Presidents of 15 independent colleges in Illinois and a national office of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters Union voiced public support Friday of the student protest against the war and the Kent State tragedy.

In a telegram to President Nixon, the college presidents expressed "anguish in common with students over the tragic use of lethal force at Kent State which followed the expansion of the conflict in Southeast Asia."

They urged Nixon and the Congress to "restore as quickly as possible the faith of the young in the ultimate humanness of their government."

Patrick E. Gorman, secretary-treasurer of the Meat Cutters Union, issued a statement supporting "this great expression of orderly protest... against the endless war in the Asiatic jungle."

Gorman said, "Younger Americans should be joined by older Americans in this message to our government — and our government would be well advised to heed the voice of the people on this issue of war and peace."

Business — Market Wrapup

Business Mirror

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Everyone knows that the nation's federal, state and local governments are firmly committed to curtailing the persistent increases in the cost of living. True or false?

Either way you answer, you'll get an argument. A good many people blame government spending for the present inflation. Others are inclined to listen to governmental rhetoric, which is adamantly antinflation.

The facts may surprise a lot of people who firmly believe that the largest increases in the cost of living have resulted mainly from higher food prices. "And the government really can't be blamed for that," they say.

The fact is that food price increases were far down the list of contributors to the rising cost of living between 1967 and 1969. Topping the list was the personal tax bite, which rose about 28 to 31 per cent.

Recognition of this fact comes from none other than the federal government, which recently released budgets for typical urban families in 39 metropolitan areas across the nation.

These budgets show that, next to taxes, the big increases were: Social Security taxes, insurance and contributions, 13 to 15 per cent; medical care, 14 per cent; clothing and personal care, 11 per cent.

Higher food prices contributed 8 to 9 per cent of the increase. Transportation costs also added 8 per cent, and housing costs added 5 to 6 per cent.

These budgets show that the so-called intermediate budget for an urban family of husband, wife, boy 13 and girl 8 was $10,077 in the spring of 1969, broken down this way:

Food $2,288, housing $2,351, transportation $940, clothing and personal care $1,095, medical care $543, family consumption $601, personal taxes $1,348, and Social Security, insurance and contributions $1,262.

The rapidly increasing role of taxes in the rising cost of living prompted the Chamber of Commerce of the United States to issue this reminder:

"The average American taxpayer will commence working for himself on May 9."

"Up to that date this year he will have worked just to pay his federal, state and local taxes, according to taxation experts of the Chamber."

"They figure that Mr. Average works two hours and 49 minutes out of an eight-hour day to pay all of his tax bills."

What an irony that taxes are taking such a bite out of the budgets of ordinary Americans at the very time they complained about seeing too few results from their tax contributions.

The explanation isn't easy to come by, but it is generally agreed that bureaucratic waste makes a large contribution. Perhaps more so than in any other time in our history, this is the age of the study, rather than the action committee.

FUNNY BUSINESS

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — Antiwar demonstrations and fistfights on Wall St. were the real excitement Friday as the stock market drifted lower in lackluster trading.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials slipped 3.34 to 717.73. Earlier in the afternoon, it had been down close to 7.

Volume Friday was 6.93 million, lowest for the year. Thursday's volume was 9.53 million shares.

During much of the afternoon, traders and stock exchange workers looked out their office windows as student antiwar protesters were confronted by helmeted construction workers.

Scuffling broke out, and at least 40 persons were treated for minor injuries at a makeshift first-aid station.

Analysts described this preoccupation with noneconomic factors as typical, with investors apparently more concerned with Cambodian developments and student unrest than the state of the economy.

Many investors were sitting on the sidelines awaiting President Nixon's news conference Friday night and the massive march on Washington expected Saturday, analysts said.

The New York Stock Exchange's index of some 1,200 common stocks closed off 0.24 at 43.61. The Associated Press 60-stock average ended down 1.6 at 252.5, with industrials off 2.6, rails off 0.6, and utilities off 0.9. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index was off 0.39 at 79.44.

There were 810 declines and 485 advances, with 269 stocks remaining unchanged. The market had 166 new lows and 3 new highs.

Airlines and steels were up, while motors, rubber issues, mail order-retail, aircraft, utilities and chemicals were off. Rails, oils, metals and electronics were mixed.

Closing Big Board prices included volume leader McDonald, off 1 1/4 to 34 1/4; Telex, off 1/4 to 19 1/4; Memorex, up 2 1/4 to 80 1/4; Xerox, off 1 1/4 to 82 1/4; and IBM, up 3/4 to 290 1/4.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were fractionally lower. The Amex price-change index closed off 0.06 at 21.60. Volume was 2.05 million shares, compared with 2.70 million Thursday.

Cholera From Kentucky Hogs

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Illinois Agriculture Director John W. Lewis said Thursday a second case of hog cholera has occurred in Kendall County from an illegal shipment of hogs from Kentucky.

Lewis said 300 swine were involved in the outbreak near Yorkville, Ill. The swine were in one of two shipments into the state from the West Kentucky Feeder Pig Co., of Corydon, Ky., Lewis said.

He said the cholera outbreaks will necessitate quarantining Fox and Kendall township in Kendall County.

A hearing has been set to consider the revocation of the Illinois feeder swine dealer's license of the Kentucky firm.

A previous shipment by the Corydon, Ky., firm to a farm near Greenville, broke out with cholera in April.

WHEAT FUTURES DECLINE AGAIN

CHICAGO (AP) — New crop wheat futures came under strong liquidating pressure this week on the Chicago Board of Trade, declining up to 4 3/4 cents a bushel.

Corn and rye futures were irregular along with soybeans, but oats closed on a strong tone.

When trade ended on Friday, wheat futures were 1 3/4 to 4 3/4 cents a bushel lower, May 1.49 1/4; corn was 1 cent lower to 1 1/4 higher, May 1.28 3/4; oats were 1/4 to 2 1/2 cents higher, May 67 3/4 cents; rye was 1/2 lower to 3/4 higher, May 1.07 3/4; soybeans were 2 cents lower to 3/4 higher, May 2.65 3/4.

The decline of wheat futures prices generally followed trade and private reports concerning the winter wheat crop, which is being harvested in southern Texas. Some sources estimated that the five major producing states in the Southwest might attain last year's high production.

Are You Liable If Babysitter Is Hurt?

By CARLTON SMITH and RICHARD PUTNAM PRATT

Few families are aware of the financial hazards that lurk in the casual practice of paying a girl to babysit for the evening or engaging the services of a neighborhood boy to manure the lawn.

Who pays the bill when such household helpers are injured on the job? The answer may well be you, the employer—and you may find yourself paying not only doctor bills, but weekly cash benefits and legal penalties besides.

In the home of a New Jersey couple, a baby sitter was injured in a fall. When she applied for workmen's compensation benefits, the question of whether or not the girl was a "workman" became one to be answered, finally, by a court.

Yes, the court ruled, under that state's law she was. She should have been covered by workmen's compensation insurance but wasn't—and so her employers were personally liable for the benefits she was entitled to.

Costs in such cases can easily run into thousands of dollars. And under some state laws, you may be assessed heavy penalty payments in addition.

THE DOCTOR SAYS
Nervous Tension, A Cause
Of Restlessness In Sleep

(Last of Two Related Columns) By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.
Q—I lead a very sedentary life. Sometimes I waken during the night and am unable to go back to sleep because I can't bear to remain in the same position for more than a few seconds. What causes this and what can I do for it?

A—This type of restlessness affects everyone at times. It is caused by nervous tension. Some persons are helped by getting up and engaging in physical exercise until they are tired or by drinking a glass of warm milk. But the best treatment is to master the art of progressive relaxation.

Q—Just as I drift off to sleep, I am sometimes awakened by a violent jerking. Is there any cure for this?

A—This is a common accompaniment of nervous fatigue and increased tension. It calls for a calmer way of life and an earlier hour for retiring.

Q—My husband snores regardless of which side he sleeps on. Is there any treatment that will stop this?

A—Since snoring may have various causes, your husband should be examined to see whether he has a correctable condition, such as enlarged tonsils or adenoids, nasal obstruction, a swollen uvula, sleeping without removing poorly fitted dentures or excessive smoking or drinking. Over 300 patents have been granted for snore-stopping devices. A chin harness often helps snorers who sleep with their mouths open and sewing a golf ball or collapsible rubber squeak ball on the back of the pajamas will help those who snore loudest when lying on their backs.

Perhaps you should get yourself a pair of ear plugs since it is you, not your husband, who is the real sufferer.

Q—What determines the sex of a child? I have heard that if a woman conceives when she has her climax before her husband it will surely be a girl.

A—In spite of many old wives' tales, there is a 50-50 chance of having a boy in any given pregnancy. The sex determiners are carried only in the sperms, half of which carry male and half female determiners. Try flipping a coin 100 times and keep track of the sequence of heads or tails. The totals will be nearly equal but you may be surprised how many consecutive tosses are heads and how many are tails.

The bridge game at Elsinore was in full swing. Hamlet, the melancholy Dane, was playing well and holding bad cards as usual.

His ten-point hand in the West seat looked mighty good to him and he put in a spade overcall, only to find his opponents in another game contract.

He opened the jack of diamonds. Polonius played dummy's king and poor Yorick, sitting East, signaled come-on by playing the six.

Polonius led the queen of hearts for a finesse and Hamlet was on lead with the king.

"To shift or not to shift, that is the question. For whether 'tis better in the mind to sit back safely and let outrageous fortune work its will or to try to conquer with another suit will soon be known. I'll try a spade."

After this brief soliloquy, Hamlet placed the queen of spades on the table.

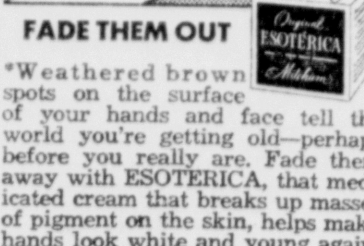

Polonius played dummy's king. Horatio, sitting North, smiled happily when the king held but the smile was wasted on Polonius. He could see game and rubber going to the place from which there is no return.

He drew trumps, led the ten of clubs and let it ride. Yorick won with the king and, for want of anything better to do, led back a spade.

Polonius could play either of his spades but Hamlet took his ace and ten.

The rubber was still going on and Hamlet decided that maybe nothing was rotten in the State of Denmark after all.

Atlanta Homers Tip Cards Again

ATLANTA (AP) — Hal King's solo homer in the seventh inning, following a three-run blast in the sixth by Hank Aaron, paced Atlanta to an 8-7 comeback victory over St. Louis Friday night, extending the Braves winning string to 10 games.

King's blow to right came off reliever Chuck Taylor after Cardinal fireballer Bob Gibson yielded seven runs and 10 hits.

Aaron's homer, the 566th of his career, and 12th of the season, scored Ralph Garr, who struck a pinch single, and Sonny Jackson, who walked, to get the Braves even. Rico Carty followed with an infield single to stretch his hitting streak to 26 games.

Sophomore Kent Youngren was picked at 142 lb. Youngren, from New Lenox, Ill. (Lincoln-Way H. S.), was coached by Bill Marco. He earned a 22-4 record, including three Invitational Championships.

Jon Maple, a sophomore from Park Ridge, Ill. (Maine East H.S.) was coached by Ken Houton. Maple had an 18-10 record, with one championship and showed well in both the NCAA College Division Championship and the National AAU Meet.

Comets Capture PMSC Honors, Take 7-2 Count

CHANDLERVILLE — A five-run explosion in the first inning was enough as Chandlerville rolled to a 7-2 victory over Virginia and clinched the outright championship of the PMSC Conference Friday afternoon.

The Comets own a 6-1 PMSC mark and stand 9-2 overall entering the Brown County District Monday. Chandlerville has won or shared the PMSC crown seven of the past eight years.

Dennis Boeker twirled a five-hitter in a strong nine-strikeout, five-walk performance to win his record to 7-0 on the season.

Three hit batsmen, Gary Eiler's single, Gary Gabehart's two-run single and Rod Atterberry's three-run double accounted for the five-run first. Gabehart had three hits for the day with Atterberry driving in four of the seven Comet runs.

Virginia stands 5-4 overall and 4-4 in league action.

Dodgers Erupt In 12th Inning For 8-4 Triumph

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Two-out doubles by Willie Davis and Wes Parker in the 12th inning accounted for the tie-breaking run and Bill Sudakis wrapped it up with a three-run homer as the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated Philadelphia 8-4 Friday night.

Trailing 4-1, the Phillies tied it with a barrage of late-inning solo homers. Byron Browne connected off starter Claude Osteen in the eighth and Deron Johnson and Don Money tied it in the ninth with consecutive one-out shots off Jim Brewer.

Mitterwald Lets Minnesota Edge Cleveland, 7-6

CLEVELAND (AP) — George Mitterwald's two-run homer and Tony Oliva's run scoring single in the eighth inning Friday night lifted the Minnesota Twins to a 7-6 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

The Indians scored four runs in the sixth to grab a 6-4 lead, but Bob Allison opened the eighth with a single off Barry Moore and Mitterwald followed with his tying homer.

Cesar Tovar drilled a one-out single and stole second. Then, with two out, Harmon Killebrew was walked intentionally and Oliva stroked the go-ahead single.

Southeast Takes Conference Lead

Springfield Southeast exploded for 9 runs in the fourth and fifth innings and dealt Jacksonville High school a costly 10-5 Capitol Conference defeat on the JHS diamond Friday afternoon.

The victory boosted Southeast to 5-0 in the league race with one game remaining. JHS slipped to 4-1 in the standings, with one rain-out game with MacArthur to be rescheduled later if Southeast loses its final loop contest.

Jacksonville took a 2-1 lead into the fourth inning with a pair of tallies in the third on a walk to Claude Christison, an error on Jim Bonds' ground ball, Dave Lampitt's single and Ed Aring's double.

Southeast then ripped Bonds for five runs on six hits in the fourth, with Jim Potter, Kevin Kyes and Greg Eisele getting

REUSCHEL TOP HURLER

MACOMB — Western Illinois' All-American pitcher, Rick Reuschel, has the distinction as the nation's number one hurler. The NCAA named the big 215 pound junior righthander as the college division's leader with no earned runs through 40 innings.

Statistics show Reuschel, who compiled a 10-0 win-loss record last season, has won four of five games, struck out 42 batters, allowed just 26 hits, and walked only eight.

The 6-3 ace is out to better his 1969 season when he gave up just 11 earned runs in over 75 innings for a 1.29 earned run average. He struck out 57 batters last year while walking only 18.

The next three spots were all Crimsons. They were Jim Dowland 40-43-83, Gary Hutchison 45-38-83 and J. D. Evans 40-43-83.

Following were Dave Riffe of Girard 42-41-83, Doug Edwards of Springfield 44-40-84 and Mark Cochran of Springfield 43-42-85.

The other two Jacksonville golfers competing Friday were Gary Hickey 44-45-89 and Jim Keating 45-47-92.

Dowland will be making his third trip to the state tournament, Way and Hutchison their second and sophomores Evans and Kline their first.

Cubs 'Out-Homer' Cincinnati, 10-7

CHICAGO (AP) — Billy Williams' two homers paced a home run barrage Friday and led the Chicago Cubs to a 10-7 victory, snapping Cincinnati's eight-game winning streak and the Cubs' six-game losing string. The game featured a total of nine home runs—five by Cincinnati.

Roogie Hal McRae, and Tony Perez each hit two for the Reds. McRae put Cincinnati ahead in the second with a two-run shot.

J.C. Martin connected for the Cubs to touch off a four-run rally in the third, capped by Williams' three-run homer. The Cubs picked up two more runs in the fourth on leadoff home by Jim Hickman and a run-scoring single by Don Kessinger.

Perez' 11th homer of the year, a two-run, two-out drive, pulled the Reds back into contention in the fifth. But the Cubs came right back with four more in their half of the fifth.

Reed, the league's most valuable player, suffered a severely bruised hip in the fifth game. He responded to a standing ovation when he limped onto the floor by hitting the first basket. After Wilt Chamberlain gave the Lakers their only tie, Reed hit again in a spurt of seven straight points and the Knicks were on their way.

With the 240-pound center muscling the 7-foot-2 Chamberlain away from the basket, Frazier then led the Knicks to a 38-24 first quarter lead that stretched to 69-42 at the half. The 6-4 all-pro guard hit 23 points, added nine assists and 4 rebounds by halftime as the Knicks outshot the troubled Lakers 58 per cent to 41 per cent and forced 15 turnovers with their pressure defense.

Los Angeles never mounted a threat in the final half as the Lakers' dream for their first title since moving to Los Angeles 10 years ago ended again in failure. The defeat was particularly disappointing to Jerry West and Elgin Baylor, who have never captured the crown in their all-star careers, losing six times in the finals to Boston in the last nine years.

The home runs were Nos. 5 and 6 this season for Mays and his 605th and 606th lifetime. He added a single in a three-run eighth-inning rally.

Knicks Take First NBA Crown, 113-99

NEW YORK (AP) — Pain-racked Willis Reed gave New York the muscle and the inspiration and cat-quick Walt Frazier provided everything else as the Knicks swamped the once-again disappointed Los Angeles Lakers 113-99 Friday night and won their first National Basketball Association title after 24 frustrating years.

A standing-room only crowd of 19,500 went berserk from the opening moment when the Knicks shot ahead and never let up, and the hysterical fans were left shouting "We're No. 1" when the final buzzer sounded in this dramatic seventh game.

Illinois Battle At Quarterback In Early Test

CHAMPAIGN — Battle for the regular quarterback berth on next fall's University of Illinois football team comes down to a head-to-head confrontation between leading candidates Steve Livas and Mike Wells as the Illini stage their annual spring intrasquad game at 1:30 p.m. Saturday in Memorial Stadium.

Coach Jim Valek said this week that he will pit his first and fourth offenses and second and third defenses against his second and third offenses and first and fourth defenses. This not only will provide the match between Livas and Wells, but also will result in opposition between the first offense and defense.

Of almost as much interest as the Livas-Wells matchup will be the experiment of moving flanker Willie Osley, Detroit freshman, to a running half-back spot. The Illini have suffered for several years because of lack of speed at the position, and had no outstanding sprinters among candidates this year until Osley was moved late in April.

At least 14 newcomers are making strong bids for starting positions next season, and all but one of them is expected to play Saturday. Defensive tackle Tab Bennett has been ruled out of the game because of an intestinal inflammation.

Top-rated freshmen include Wells and Osley, plus the following:

Offense — tackle Larry McCarran, Park Forest (Rich East); end John Bedalow, Bridgeview (Oaklawn-St. Laurence); and fullbacks Mike Walker, Harvey (Thornton), and Mike Navarro, Tinley Park (Orland Park-Sandburg).

Defense — halfbacks Gary Windy, Peru (LaSalle-Peru), and John Graham, Lake City, S.C. (Carver); ends Al Keith, Evanston, and Jim Rucks, Waukegan; tackle Duane Brantley, Chicago (Mendel); and line-backers Ken Braid, Hinsdale (Central), and Larry Allen, Miami, Fla. (Jackson).

"The list of possible first teamers for next fall isn't restricted to these people among the freshmen," Valek said, "but at present these seem to be farther along."

All were members of the freshman team which defeated Purdue, 34-0, and Indiana, 31-0 in only two games of the season last fall.

Earlier, there had been speculation that Valek might go with the veteran Livas at quarterback next fall if he decided to go principally by land, and Wells if he decided to concentrate on an air attack. Now, the decision does not seem that clear. Livas actually has an advantage in pass completion percentage for spring game to date, while Wells has been running well.

Wells is a 6-5, 210-pounder from Normal, while Livas, 6-1, 190 junior, is from Chicago (Lane).

Osley played flanker throughout his varsity career at Detroit's Denby high school, but was a halfback on the freshman team there. He showed lack of experience at the position in a scrimmage last Saturday, but since then has been improving rapidly, and apparently is going to be able to make the conversion.

A move of Osley will reduce by one the large number of prime contenders at the end and flanker positions. Led by senior Doug Dieken, the impressive list includes lettermen John Kaiser, Bob Burns, Mike Pickering, and Larry McKeon, and freshmen Bedalow and Tom Mullin, Cedar Rapids, Iowa (Jefferson). Veteran Rich Wright, a starter at flanker in several 1969 games, has been moved to the defensive backfield.

Saturday's contest will be a regulation game. Only the east stands of Memorial Stadium will be used. Tickets, available at the gates, will be $1.50 for

Predicts Pro Grid Leagues To Expand

CHICAGO (AP) — Commissioner Pete Rozelle predicted Friday that professional football within the next decade would expand from 26 to 32 teams and play will be entirely on artificial turf.

Rozelle told The Executives' Club of Chicago that he eventually expected two 16-team conferences broken down into four-club divisions with an international flavor including perhaps Mexico City and Hawaii.

He said the merger of the National and American Football Leagues produced an attendance increase of 60 per cent between 1965 and 1969, lifting the over-all turnstile count from 8 million to 13 million.

With 1970 marking the first NFL-AFL interplay, the 26 consolidated clubs already have sold one million advance season tickets, Rozelle said.

Eight of the 26 clubs now are playing on artificial turf, the commissioner said, and "within a few years" he expected all teams would be cavorting on weather-defying phony grass.

In a question-and-answer discussion, Rozelle touched on possible avoidance of schedule conflicts by pro sports.

"Perhaps in time the various commissioners can work something out to minimize season overlapping and conflict," he said. "We (pro football) can't go any earlier because of baseball and we can't go any later because of weather."

"The period of January to April might be considered for pro football, but there you still have a big weather problem."

Sports Car Set - Rules Are Rigid

By BOB COCHRAN

In the special world of sport, ignorance is no excuse.

When a man trespasses against the sportsman's code of knowledgeable conduct in and around his particular sports passion, that man is written off as a wrong guy—or, at the very best, as a good guy not to ask back.

Against all evidence that the guest's mistakes arise out of innocence rather than a black and evil soul, the sportsman is apt to assume that any infraction of the rules, written and "understood," are willful. Although he would sooner retire to the playing fields of pinball than admit it, there are times when the "true sportsman" follows the con man's code: "Never give a sucker an even break."

—From "Esquire's Guide to Modern Etiquette," by Ron Butler (Lippincott, $7.95)

There are, of course, all sorts of regulations regarding the actual playing of any sport; Rules of "sportsmanship" are often flexible. Now, these "unwritten rules" have been written in Ron Butler's useful compendium of ways to avoid playing the slob in social situations.

There are also a few rules of the road which apply specifically to the owners of sports cars. Oddly, the suggestions are sound despite the fact that Butler doesn't have a driving license and allows his wife to play chauffeur.

While some may reasonably argue that wrestling a sports car is not a sport in the accepted sense, there are enough layers of ossified behavior modes to categorize it with such traditional games as, say, cricket, whist, court tennis, lawn bowls and ring-a-leveo. Eastern style. Certain things are just not done, understand?

When foreign-made sporting machines were seldom seen on American roads, it was customary for drivers of similar motorcars to wave jauntily at each other, as if to say: "We are members of a select club, don't you know?" Porsches waved to Porsches but did not wave to MGs, a lower order of automobile. Ferraris nodded to Ferraris but not to Corvettes, which were rather bourgeois.

But when Volkswagens started to wave at Volkswagens, the whole frou-frou business got declassé.

There is a certain reverse snobbery regarding ownership of a sports car," Butler observes. "You don't swank around," he says, "displaying your knowledge and dropping Names That Matter."

"Lording it with your fellow sports-car owners entails a double risk. One: The Ins are suspicious of snobs, especially if they were in before their sport got to be so fashionable, and name-dropping smacks of a particularly virulent form of newcomer snobbery. Two: You'll very likely be topped. Don't rattle off Italian names for the parts of your car unless you know what they mean, in English and in driving. Don't refer to your MG as your TC unless you're prepared to discuss the fine points of the PA and the PB as well."

Butler also quotes Stephen Potter, the famed one-upsmanship man, who wrote the definitive book on carsmanship. If, he says, you let it

Orr Picks Up Three Top Awards

BOSTON (AP) — Bobby Orr, the Boston Bruins' spectacular 22-year-old defenseman, became the second player in National Hockey League history to win three league awards in one season Friday.

Orr, setting records all along the way in becoming one of hockey's all-time greats despite his tender age, was given a standing ovation as he received his trophies at the NHL's annual awards luncheon.

He received the Hart Trophy as the league's most valuable player, the Art Ross Trophy for leading the NHL in scoring and the Norris Trophy for the third straight year as hockey's best defenseman.

Chicago's Stan Mikita is the only other NHL player to have won three awards in one season, earning the Hart, Ross and Lady Byng Trophies in 1967 and '68.

Chicago's Tony Esposito, who gave Orr the closest run for MVP honors, received two trophies—the Vezina for allowing the fewest goals and the Calder as the NHL Rookie-of-the-Year.

The other award went to St. Louis center Phil Goyette, who edged Boston's Johnny Bucyk for the Lady Byng Trophy, which combines outstanding play with sportsmanship.

Orr was kept busy parading to the presentation table at the luncheon attended by his teammates and the St. Louis Blues.

Olivet Takes Two Games From IC

KANKAKEE — Olivet Nazarene rallied for four runs in the bottom of the seventh inning for a 5-4 victory to complete a Prairie College Conference sweep over Illinois College Thursday afternoon.

Jim Jenkins drove in two third inning runs with a single and Castleberry chased in two more with a single in the sixth as IC built a 4-1 lead only to falter in the bottom of the seventh as Olivet used four singles and a pair of walks to pull it out.

Glotzbach Will Lead The Field In Rebel 400

DARLINGTON, S. C. (AP) — Charlie Glotzbach and Bobby Allison, two top pros who have never had any luck at Darlington, will lead a field of 36 cars to the line Saturday in the Rebel 400 stock car race.

Glotzbach, 32, of Georgetown, Ind., won the inside pole position at a speed of 153.822 miles per hour in a Dodge. His qualifying speed set a record for the mile and three eighths speedway, considered the toughest on men and machines on NASCAR's Grand National Circuit.

Allison, also a Dodge regular, was clocked at 153.526 m.p.h. to get the other front row assignment. The Hueytown, Ala., veteran later turned laps at the 155 m.p.h. mark to show that he was ready.

Glotzbach wrecked in his last start at Darlington, while Allison was leading last spring's Rebel 400 with two laps to go when he collided with LeeRoy Yarbrough, putting him out of action and allowing Yarbrough to limp home the winner.

Murray Olderman NEA Executive Editor

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
NEW YORK (NEA) — In some future eon of time, after George Blanda, aged 42, has decided to forsake the violent exercise of professional football, a little cranny probably awaits him in the Pro Football Hall of Fame at Canton, Ohio.

You look skeptical. "George Blanda? The old guy who pops off about his own teammates? The old Oiler scatterman who threw passes to both teams?"

The same. Keep the name firmly in mind. It'll be scattered through the next National Football League Record Manual like bare spots on a spring lawn.

One of the final by-products of the merger of the National and American Football Leagues, now fully consummated, was the incorporation of all the AFL records. This was a high-level command decision, made at 410 Park Ave., after three years of pondering, and influenced no doubt by the AFL successes in the last two Super Bowls. The combined NFL-AFL statistics will appear for the first time early this summer in the record manual.

They will show that George Blanda, abruptly, has become the greatest individual record holder in the history of football. Not bad for a guy the Chicago Bears got rid of as over the hill 10 years ago.

George holds 10 offensive marks and shares an 11th (only Jim Brown, with eight individual achievements in rushing, is close). The following are his records, covering his NFL and AFL careers:

Most seasons, active player: 20.

Most games, lifetime: 257. Most points, lifetime: 1,447. (George counts this his most significant achievement—"They pay off on points.")

Most points after touchdown, lifetime: 703.

(All the above records were previously held by Lou Groza, whose four-year totals in the old All-America Conference do not count.)

Most points after touchdown, season: 64.

Most seasons led league, points after touchdown: 5.

Most passes attempted, game: 68.

Most passes completed, game: 37.

Most touchdown passes, season: 36 (tied with Y. A. Tittle of the New York Giants).

Most passes had intercepted, lifetime: 265.

Most passes had intercepted, season: 42.

George doesn't go around bragging about the last two figures. "You take the bad with the good," he says, getting ready to go down to the handball court.

He plays handball four times a week at home in the Chicago area. He's preparing for his 21st season, as the backup quarterback and placekicker of the Oakland Raiders. He's philosophical about the records.

"If anybody wants to play 25 years," he shrugs, "they can break any of them."

AFL names will also head 16 other individual categories in the record book. Among the most coveted records are:

Most field goals, season: Jim Turner, New York Jets, 34.

Most yards gained, game: Cookie Gilchrist, Buffalo, 243 (breaking Jim Brown's record of 237).

Most consecutive passes completed: Lenny Dawson, Kansas City, 15.

Most yards gained passing, season: Joe Namath, New York Jets, 4,007.

Most pass receptions, season: Charley Hennigan, Houston, 101.

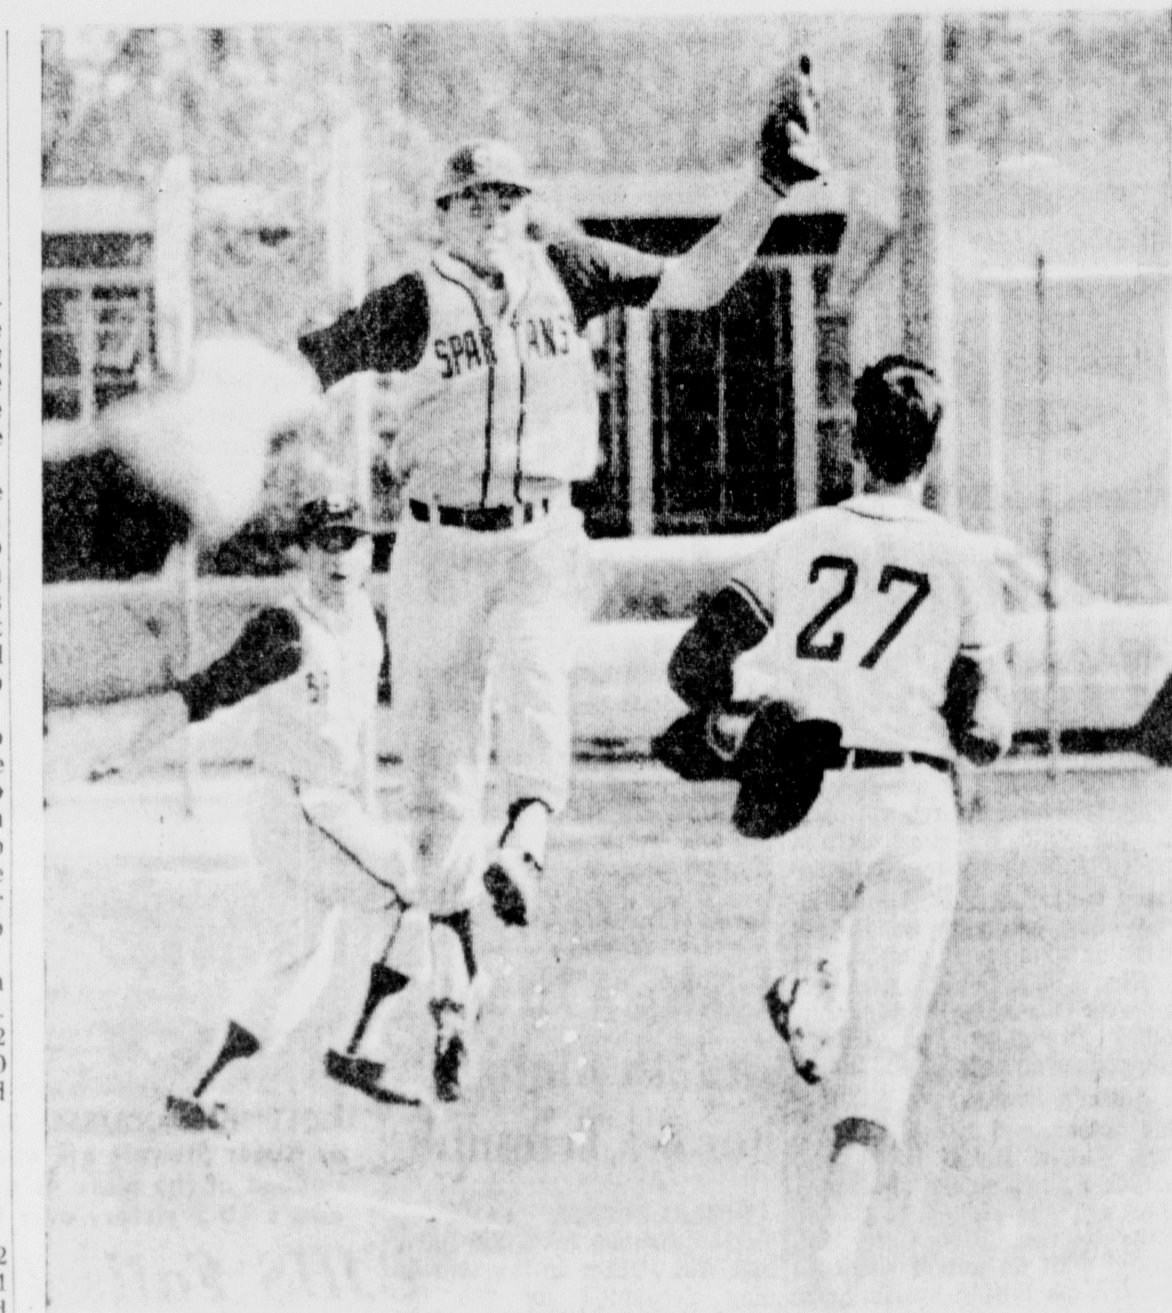

Most consecutive games, pass receptions: Lance Alworth, San Diego, 96 (breaking Don Hutson's mark of 95).

Most yards gained pass receptions, season: Charley Hennigan, Houston, 1,746.

Most yards gained pass receptions, lifetime: Don Maynard, New York Jets, 10,373.

And then there is the dubious distinction of the Chiefs' Dawson, hero of the Super Bowl. He fumbled seven times in one game against San Diego in 1964, an unparalleled feat.

But also indelibly in the record book is the name of Bill Groman. Remember him? He ranks right up there alongside Don Hutson and Elroy Hersch. Like them, he once caught 17

IN THE AIR: Jacksonville High hurler Jim Bonds is about to leg out an infield roller as Southeast first baseman Rick Niehaus has to leap to take a high throw and is caught up in the air. Bonds reached on the play and came around to score in third frame of 10-5 loss to Southeast Friday afternoon.

Anderson Inks Rich Grid Pact

DENVER (AP) — Bobby Anderson, who turned from a college All-American to a rookie running back with the Denver Broncos Friday, smiled self-consciously as Coach Lou Saban handed him a big orange and blue Bronco jersey, bearing the number 11.

"I hope this is for 11 touchdowns," Saban grinned, just before he started pre-season rookie workouts Friday.

Anderson, the 6-foot, 217-pound University of Colorado tailback who was the Broncos' top choice in the National Football League draft last winter, said he was happy with his multi-year contract, but did not disclose the terms.

Saban, who posed for post-signing pictures with his new acquisition, told newsmen: "I started smiling at the start of the draft—and I've never stopped."

Anderson broke 18 University of Colorado records as the Buffs' quarterback, and then tailback. He was the Big Eight conference's all-time total offense leader, amassing 5,017 yards and twice winning all conference honors.

Anderson was the second No. 1 draft choice to sign with the Bronco club in the club's 11-year history. Floyd Little, All-American running back at Syracuse University, was the first. He signed in 1967, and Saban now has an opportunity to develop a powerful 1-2 running attack and pass option threat in the two backs.

touchdown passes in a season (1961) for Houston, with Blanda on the throwing end. And then quickly disappeared.

"It's nice to have your name in the record book," says George realistically. "But it's nicer to play all those years."

Harry S. Truman was still president of the United States when Blanda started in pro football.

Unearned Runs Allow Houston To Edge Pirates

HOUSTON (AP) — Pitcher Jim Ray's infield hit broke a sixth-inning deadlock and Joe Morgan followed with a two-run triple, carrying the Houston Astros to a 7-5 victory over Pittsburgh Friday night.

Pittsburgh's Bob Robertson smacked a pair of two-run homers, but the Astros' flurry of three unearned runs in the sixth pinned the Pirates with their eighth loss in nine games.

Tommy Davis started the deciding rally with a one-out single and shortstop Fred Patek booted Doug Rader's grounder for an error. Davis took third on a fly out and scored as Ray beat out a slow roller in front of the plate, giving Houston a 5-4 edge. Morgan then lashed a triple to right, scoring Rader and Ray.

Agee Streak Interrupted By Benching

NEW YORK (AP) — A funny thing happened to Tommie Agee midway through his 18-game hitting streak which tied a New York Mets record. He was benched.

"I just felt our right-handed hitters needed a rest," Manager Gil Hodges said after setting down Cleon Jones, Joe Foy and Agee after the fleet center fielder hit in his eighth game in a row.

The Mets weren't hitting—going scoreless for 29 consecutive innings—when the three were benched in San Francisco. Agee pinch hit in the finale of the three-game set and singled. He has connected in every Mets game since.

Agee's single in the first inning against right-hander Alan Foster of Los Angeles Thursday night, tied the mark set by Frank Thomas in 1962.

"It's been a funny streak," Agee said before Friday night's game against San Francisco at Shea Stadium, where he goes for the record. "I'm not really hitting the ball as good as I should. I've hit better but never in this many games in a row."

Agee, the American League's Rookie of the Year in 1966 when he was with the Chicago White Sox, is best remembered for his two fantastic catches which helped the Mets stop Baltimore in the World Series last year.

However, Agee, 27, also hit .271 in 1969 and drove in 76 runs with 26 home runs, mostly as a leadoff hitter.

GLENN FORD

TO STAR IN

CBS SERIES

Glenn Ford, one of Hollywood's most popular actors, has been signed to star in his first television series—a half-hour situation comedy-drama planned for presentation in the 1971-72 season on the CBS Television Network.
Robert D. Wood, president of the Network, said that 20th Century-Fox Television and the CBS Television Network had completed an agreement for Mr. Ford to star in the new series, as yet untitled, in which he plays a detective sergeant who volunteers to work with children whose ages range from eight through their juvenile years.

NBC-TV's Dean Martin credits his uncle, comedian Leonard Barr, with helping him get started in show business. Every year Dean makes sure that Barr appears on his TV show.

Next Season's Hits,
Misses Predicted

NEW YORK (AP) — Picking the hits and misses among the new television shows next season can be a risky business. But Herb Jacobs, who claims a 95 per cent record over the past five years, has stuck out his neck again with a forecast of next season. Jacobs is chairman of Telcom Associates, Inc., a research company.

As he sees it, Andy Griffith will be the biggest hit of the new shows.

"He's a known quantity," said Jacobs. "His fans missed him and will flock over to him."

Other hits will be Flip Wilson and Don Knotts with their own variety shows and Danny Thomas as back with a situation comedy called "Make Room for Daddy."

Jacobs looks for Mary Tyler Moore to be an early casualty. She is up against tough competition in "Mud Squad" and "Knots. Another factor, he said, is that in an audience survey people associated her with Dick Van Dyke's co-star.

Tim Conway's new variety show is given little chance. "Tim Conway is a good second banana but he has had two bombs on his own," Jacobs said.

"Don Knotts on the other hand scored heavily in the box-office with his own movies. And Flip Wilson is big with teens and young people and doesn't

OCEAN FRONTIER
HAWAII - FILMED
SPECIAL ON CBS

The ocean—the importance of its increasingly vital though relatively untapped resources, the fascinating scenery on and below its surface and the behavioral characteristics of its creatures, especially its po-poises—is the subject of "Arthur Godfrey's America—The Ocean Frontier," an informational special to be broadcast 6:30-7:30 p.m. Tuesday, May 12, in color on the CBS Television Network.

Godfrey narrates and participates in the special, which explores the sea and sea-life from the Pacific's surface to its floor. It examines the evolutionary history of the porpoise and the entertaining and scientific uses to which these former land-dwelling creatures are put at the Sea Life Park, where Godfrey chats with various oceanographers.

Peter Marshall host of NB-
TV's "The Hollywood Squares," is quite proud of his 19-year-old son Pete, who was selected as the number one draft choice of baseball's Chicago Cubs. Pete is a six-foot-two 200-pound who bats and throws left-handed.

'Citizens Concerned' Map Capitol Assault

"Concerned Citizens For Strong Public Schools," was the name adopted Friday morning at a meeting designed to defeat a legislative proposal under consideration in Springfield which would provide public funds for private schools.

The meeting was chaired by Ben Loudermilk and held at Hamilton's restaurant at 7 a.m., the third in a series of meetings to whip up public support to defeat the pending legislation.

Loudermilk related that the education committee of the Illinois State Senate would consider the bill Wednesday afternoon in Springfield. He said, "the present bill would earmark $29 million toward the support of private and parochial schools." He said that of the 15 members on the committee, at least five senators are "undecided" on the issue. Senator G. William Horsley of Springfield who represents Morgan county was among the "undecided five."

Rev. Harold Hendrick, chairman of the public awareness committee, outlined plans to explain the group's program to the public through use of a newspaper advertisement, television spot, radio spots and circulars.

Autos Damaged In 2 Accidents

Two vehicles were heavily damaged but the driver in both instances escaped serious injury.

State police investigated an accident at 6:20 a.m. Friday on Route 104 one mile east of Pisgah. James D. Schermerhorn, 34, of Springfield was westbound on Route 104 when he fell asleep. His auto ran off the highway and overturned twice. He was ticketed for failure to reduced speed.

At 9:30 a.m. police were called to an accident 1½ miles south on Route 67 where an auto driven by Gerald L. Ashbaker, 22, of Route 1, Murrayville ran out of control and overturned in front of Cruzan Nursery.

An unidentified second auto pulled from the nursery drive into the path of Ashbaker according to investigating troopers.

Ashbaker escaped serious injury but his car was demolished. Some damage also resulted to the Cruzan property.

Rev. Hendrick received unanimous support of the scope of the program, although the full financial support was not immediately available. Contributions will be solicited through members and interested citizens.

Friday's meeting was attended, for the most part, by interested clergymen. Loudermilk indicated that those who support the ideals of the group, however, find it difficult to meet during the week.

The next meeting has been set for Sunday, May 17, at 2:30 p.m. at Hamilton's restaurant.

Current plans call for petitions to be circulated among church congregations for presentation at next Wednesday's hearing before the education committee of the State Senate and a contingent of interested people from Jacksonville to attend in person.

Rev. John Lauer, pastor of Brooklyn Methodist Church, who served as finance chairman of the group, resigned from the committee because he is a trustee of MacMurray College. He said, he "would not want his personal interests to reflect, in any way, the position of the college or cause any ill feeling toward the college."

Other committee chairmen are: Barry Pidecock, study committee; Rev. N. H. Butler, action committee; Rev. Harold Hendrick, public awareness; and Jim Chambers, secretary.

Membership in the committee is open to the public. Chairman Loudermilk said, bulk of the membership includes laymen, and although it would appear to have religious overtones, the group's philosophy is certainly not "anti anything" in scope.

The new finance chairman for the group was announced later Friday morning by Ben Loudermilk. Mrs. John Schaffer has accepted the chairmanship and will accept funds from interested persons.

The statement by Agent O. H. Perry, of the International

Perry said he made no mention of the impending work stoppage during the meeting which

Home Rule Question Raised At Con-Con

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The Illinois Constitutional Convention's Local Government Committee is studying whether to start home rule for the state's 1,027 cities and villages with only one prohibition.

Local governments would be prohibited from enacting a city or village income tax. "If the constitution is going to be successful at all in the election," said Committee Chairman John Parkhurst of Peoria, "we need that prohibition in the language."

After the initial prohibition, authority for such a tax might be granted only by the general assembly.

Cities and villages would start with all other powers and functions. Under the present constitution they must wait for the general assembly to grant them any power or function.

In the innovative plan, the general assembly could reduce the proposed initial grant to nearly total power.

Specific denial of any power to cities or villages would require a three-fifths vote in each house of the legislature.

The broad grant of powers to start would specify regulation for the protection of public health, safety and welfare; licensing for regulation and revenue; taxing; and incurring debt.

These powers could be trimmed in another way besides outright denial by the legislature through an extraordinary majority vote. Through a simple majority, lawmakers could say the state only would exercise a function or power.

The state would be bound to act but the local government would be preempted from acting in that area.

Otherwise, both cities and villages and the state could exercise the same powers and functions at the same time in all those areas not covered by a legislative vote.

"There's no other state that's done it," said Philip Carey of Chicago, committee vice chairman. "We'd be ahead of everybody."

In the area of county home rule, the committee is weighing similar grants.

Parkhurst said committee members, in weighing the proposals before voting next week, should consider them in connection with possible classification of cities and counties.

Committee discussions have tended to center on classifying cities and counties with more than 50,000 population as those which would be most likely to qualify for the full range of powers.

There are 18 cities and 9 counties in Illinois with more than 50,000 population, Parkhurst said.

The question of local debt limit is also being weighed. A subcommittee suggestion would limit cities and counties with more than 50,000 to a debt of no more than 5 per cent of assessed valuation.

David Stahl of Chicago, subcommittee chairman, said other classifications would be units between 15,000 and 50,000 a debt of no more than 3 per cent; and under 15,000, a debt of no more than 1 per cent.

The limits could be raised by action of the general assembly or by local referendum.

Union To Seek Work Stoppage

By REG ANKROM

A union business agent representing nine former city employees whose jobs have been terminated said Friday night the union will seek to halt all maintenance work for the City Light and Power Company.

The statement by Agent O. H. Perry, of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Local 51, of Springfield, came after city officials met in a special closed session with the nine linemen who were fired by council action from the City Light and Power Company.

Perry said he made no mention of the impending work stoppage during the meeting which was barred to the press, but added that it was a result of the meeting's unsatisfactory conclusion.

"I thought we were going to talk about the discharge of these men," Perry told reporters. "So we have waited before calling a work stoppage. I felt the termination was the main subject of the meeting but it was steered away from it."

Perry charged that the meeting was limited to certain topics skirting what he called the main issues and leading him to believe that city officials "are trying to brush this thing (the terminations) under the table."

Asked about Perry's claim, Mayor Dan Lahey conceded that he "limited the discussion."

"The purpose was for the linemen to present their grievances," the mayor said. "I did what I promised to do; to hold a meeting to talk to the linemen."

At least one alderman indicated he remained uncertain about the problem. Asked by reporters how he felt about the conduct of the special session, Alderman Charles Quinn replied, "I think it was conducted in the manner Mayor Lahey wanted it."

"I would have liked to have heard more information from both sides," the alderman said.

Alderman Quinn cast the only negative vote against termination of linemen's duties. The motion was made by Alderman Cornell Kane and the council authorized the utilities director to contract outside firms to maintain electrical service.

Nearly all the alderman attending Friday's meeting filed out of the Council Chambers refusing to comment on the outcome. Alderman Kane, leading council members, responded, "No comment," to questions.

Meanwhile, Perry told the press that union members working for Ingram Electric, the present outside contractor, have signed a letter to abide by the union's action. In effect, Perry said, the city will be without maintenance crews.

He said the union intends to take whatever legal action necessary to get reinstatement for the nine men. Perry said lawyers have examined the contract and have found no reason for termination.

"Our lawyers have told us the contract is valid. We do have a signed agreement," Perry said.

The contract is being sent for further scrutiny to a law firm specializing in labor matters, Perry continued. The matter will, if necessary, be taken to court.

"The city has also informed me by letter they (linemen) have no more sick leave or vacation time," Perry said. "According to legal authorities, they still have that coming."

Perry indicated that he felt the only satisfactory thing to come out of the meeting was a report by linemen of electrical hazards in the city. He said the report showed some electrical facilities are improperly maintained. Some high voltage equipment is improperly guarded, he said, and in such condition that "if a kid got his hand in them, he would be killed."

There were nine items submitted in the safety complaint handed to the council.

"The conditions are unsafe for the public and for the men working on them" Perry, himself a former linemen, stated. "Anytime you're around voltage as high as 12,000 volts, the condition is hazardous."

Alderman Quinn also said he had made a partial investigation of the charges made by linemen about unsafe working conditions.

"I have looked into some of the things they have been talking about. I wouldn't work around them," he said.

Perry reported that for the present, the union will not set up picket lines or stage any demonstrations. He listed a number of local firms which employ members of Local 51, but said none would be asked to participate in any type of demonstration.

The union plans to continue arbitration for the full reinstatement of the men, he added, and will ask for back pay for each of them. In the meantime, the union has ordered them to continue to report for work.

Superintendent Jameson said he knew of no safety hazards in the city before the linemen made their report. Later, however, he confirmed a rumor that he had asked Ingram Electric to alleviate some hazards. He did not say how many.

The superintendent, first informed of the planned work stoppage by members of the press, said, "If they (the union) do not provide linemen, then you're at liberty to get whoever you want."

In a prepared statement, he said he still contends that by leaving their jobs, the linemen ignored provisions of their contract.

"The contract recognized an employee could be discharged for voluntary absence from work without any satisfactory explanation and that the city could contract out work covered by the contract," the statement said.

Asked about the city's earlier acknowledgment that the linemen were ill, Superintendent Jameson said, "That was the only thing we could go by." He confirmed that the contract allows for sick time, but stated, "It soon became obvious from various sources that the linemen did not stop work because they were ill."

He refused to say whether or not he personally tried to contact the linemen to ascertain their condition.

All linemen reportedly have doctor's certifications of illness which the city said it would require before permitting them to return to work. None of the linemen, however, have produced the certificates, according to the superintendent's statement.

Superintendent Jameson denied any responsibility for the walkout by linemen April 22. The linemen charged the superintendent with harassment and failure to listen to maintenance problems.

Crime Commission Elects New Officers

New officers for the Crime Prevention Commission serving Morgan, Cass and Scott counties were elected at a recent meeting. Terms become effective May 1.

Elected were: Byron Holkenbrink, chairman; Sgt. Merle Balke, Illinois State Police, vice-chairman and Harold E. Wright, secretary-treasurer.

Two new members were appointed to the commission. William S. Schildman, attorney, and Thomas Jones, activity therapist supervisor at Jacksonville State Hospital.

The commission is a branch of the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission and has the task of prevention of crime and to insure the greater safety of the people and to better coordinate law enforcement efforts and juvenile delinquency control.

State and federal funds, supplemented in some instances by local government, are allocated by the ILEC after receiving an acceptable application submitted by the Commission Project Director Capt. Wilbur Stafford and Assistant Director, Rene Lemme, both members of the city police department.

Capt. Stafford said the commission projects have now been funded in the amount of more than $69,000 with eight projects underway and three pending. Projects in process include a comprehensive management study of the Jacksonville Police Department and the Morgan County Sheriff's department and law enforcement agencies in Cass county. This survey will be handled by the Police Training Institute of the University of Illinois.

A community relations study is being conducted under the leadership of Dr. Robert Guthrie of MacMurray College.

A training program aimed at identifying children with problems and how to help them, will be under the direction of Frank Harris and Ed McEvers who are employed by the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services.

A training program for law enforcement officers in the three-county area has been in progress for three months and will continue for the next seven.

The local commission has also received a grant that will provide for a drug abuse training program that will be conducted at the U.S. Public Health Service Hospital at Lexington, Ky., for approximately 40 people from the three-county area.

State's Attorney Walter Farland of Cass County is chairman of the committee that will set guidelines for this program.

A police aide program has been funded that provides the Jacksonville Police Department with funds to hire part-time help to assist in specific areas. This program is under the direction of Chief Charles P. Runkel.

Guidelines for all programs have been established by the ILEC. Commission Chairman Holkenbrink is a former member of the ILEC and served five years as a member of the Illinois Police Training Board.

Ray Page Says 'Days Of Fun & Games' Over

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Ray Page, Illinois superintendent of public instruction, said Friday university presidents are attempting to "muzzle" President Nixon on college campus demonstrations.

Page, addressing the Illinois Federation of Republican Women, cited news reports saying presidents of eight leading universities persuaded Nixon to refrain from criticism of campus protest and militancy.

"It is most repugnant to me that the so-called champions of freedom of expression and verbalization, the presidents of universities, would attempt to muzzle the President and vice president of the United States when they speak out against revolt and violent protest on our nation's campuses," Page said.

"If the university presidents would channel their energies and put a muzzle on the William Kuntzlers, the Rap Browns, the Abbie Hoffmans — and the other apostles of anarchy who would destroy this government — this country and our entire society would be better off."

Page said the "days of fun and games are over." "We are engaged in a civil war, a war that will lead us to victory or defeat and the salvation of our nation and our youth," he said.
